

Professional Sheet Metal Products

EXPRESS
since 1905

Advanced soldering irons for every application.

Quality soldering is a craft of precision and patience. Often, the impact of this trade is recognized in the smallest of details. One detail that stands out above the rest: sheet metal roofing is among the fastest growing markets in the industry.

To stay ahead of the competition but remain a true craftsman at the very same time, you need a soldering iron with next generation heating technology. That's why Express is the product line of choice for sheet metal professionals around the globe.

If you're using hand irons today, Express soldering irons make it easy to deliver the same highly professional product — only in less time.

If that's not reason enough to make the switch, here are a few more:

- Higher maximum temperatures
- A revolutionary cast iron chamber for constant and consistent heat
- Enclosed flames for safety
- Easy change-out of tips
- Dependable durability
- Increased productivity thanks to zero heat loss
- Smoother soldering joints, with no stop and start marks
- More efficient gas consumption
- Increased profits thanks to unmatched Express technology

If you're already using a soldering iron, Express irons offer more power, productivity, and profit.

Here are even more reasons to use Express:

- Increased power with patented multi-flame technology
- A 40% higher max temp for the same gas consumption
- Quick and convenient thumb control
- 70-seconds warm-up
- Lightweight and compact design for easy handling
- Up to eight times less noise
- Properly balanced handles for better control
- Eight tips for all conditions, including tips that last up to five times longer
- The first-ever hoseless iron for repairs
- Swivel hose attachment and enclosed flames
- Increased profits thanks to unmatched Express technology
